OWENS-ILLINOIS BOX PLANT DUE HERE

More Mass Demonstrations Loom in Troubled Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A student leader today threatened new mass demonstrations if the ruling triumvirate names men to the promised National Assembly who are unacceptable to the students.

Ton That Tue, a member of the newly formed Leadership Council of Saigon students, told a news conference such demonstrations would be organized only as a last resort.

Le Dinh Dieu Cam, a vice president in the new student organization, said students considered the triumvirate created last week unstable but added that the students, for the sake of "solidarity of the people, will support the government for two months. After that our attitude will depend on the situation."

The triumvirate is supposed to appoint a representative National Assembly within two months. The assembly in turn is supposed to appoint a new chief of state.

Dieu condemned the government for last week's rioting in Viet Nam which he said cost at least 20 lives. He said it was the duty of the government to protect lives and property.

The government has warned that any further violence in the streets will be met with force. It also is pressing a search for Communists it accuses of fomenting Buddhist-Roman Catholic rioting.

The government said 449 persons, including some Communists, have been rounded up in Saigon so far.

"Many Communist special activities groups entered the capital and have infiltrated various groups and organizations in order to sabotage public order and security as well as cause religious friction," a government communique said.

An army announcement said troops would shoot at demonstrators who refuse to obey orders. For a time last week soldiers watched with folded arms while Catholic and Buddhist youths battled in the streets with machetes, bricks and other weapons.

Calm has been restored in Saigon. A funeral procession of 50,000 Catholics passed through a Buddhist section without incident. Sunday as the bodies of six Catholics killed Friday were borne to their graves.

Five battalions of troops stood guard on back streets. Others lined the route to the cemetery.

Catholic priests called the victims martyrs during an hour-long Mass. A Buddhist monk attended as representative of the Buddhist Association in a display of unity.

Despite the surface calm in Saigon, a curfew remained in effect today. Schools were to reopen Thursday.

The appointment of Dr. Nguyen Xuan Oanh, 43, as acting premier gave a semblance of stability to the government. Whether the Harvard-educated economist would remain at the helm remained uncertain.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor flew Sunday to the mountain resort of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon, to confer with ailing Premier Nguyen Khanh.

Arabs To Back Greeks in Fuss Against Turks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—President Makarios won a pledge of support today from the United Arab Republic in his dispute with Turkish Cypriots on troubled Cyprus as anti-American demonstrations continued in Turkey.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser also warned against outside interference in the island's affairs, said a joint communique issued in Alexandria at the conclusion of talks between Nasser and Makarios.

Nasser did not specifically pledge military support, however.

Nasser's pledge to Makarios came on the heels of renewed demonstrations in Turkey's key cities.

The United Arab Republic thus followed the lead of Greece and the Soviet Union in promising help if Cyprus were invaded by Turkey.

"The U.A.R. is prepared to provide Cyprus with every possible support for the sake of strengthening the efforts of the Cypriot people in their struggle to safeguard the unity of their island," the communique said.

"The two sides agreed that foreign military bases are a threat to international peace," it added.

Nasser is known to be opposed to the presence of Western military bases in the eastern Mediterranean. Britain retains two military bases on Cyprus under the 1960 treaty of independence.

A British base on Cyprus was used as a staging area for the British-French attack on Egypt during the 1956 Suez crisis.

Reliable sources said Makarios and Nasser also discussed a possible shipment of Soviet arms to Cyprus via Egypt.

Before departing for Cyprus, Makarios told a news conference Nasser had promised him "all possible assistance to meet the danger of any new aggression."

The people of Cyprus should decide on enosis—union with Greece—but "under the condition that no foreign bases should be located on Cyprus," he said.

Makarios said Turkish Cypriots who compose about 20 per cent of the island's population "will not be allowed a veto power." It was Makarios' attempt to end the Turkish minority's veto on major legislation that began the Cyprus civil war last December.

The Greek Cypriot leader, who flew to Alexandria Saturday to confer with U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said Sunday that Nasser "reassured me of his support in several ways."

In an address in the Greek Orthodox cathedral in Alexandria Makarios, archbishop of Cyprus, reaffirmed "our determination to carry on our struggle to the end. We won't surrender."

"We believe that with people who have the strength to fight, we will win in the end and live free and united with Greece."

In other developments Sunday, angry Turks staged anti-Greek and anti-U.S. demonstrations for the fourth successive day while the United Nations command in Nicosia charged that Turkish and Greek flights over Cyprus had heightened tension.

Some 2,000 to 3,000 Turks marched toward Greek and U.S. embassies in Anara, the Turkish capital, but police stopped them with barricades. In the Aegean port of Izmir, firemen used high-pressure hoses to drive back about 150 persons attempting to demonstrate at the International Trade Fair.

The demonstrations followed an appeal by Premier Ismet Inonu for an end to the rioting. As troops in battle gear patrolled Turkey's largest cities, Interior Minister Orhan Oztrak warned that the government was ready to use force to restore order.

Inonu said that while Turks had a legal right to free assembly, there would be no security if unlawful demonstrators tried to set national policy.

The demonstrators accused the United States, Britain, Greece, the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union of seeking a Cyprus settlement unfavorable to Turkey.

Fatal Crash Under Probe By Patrol

Officials of the State Highway Patrol are still seeking the cause of an accident that claimed Pickaway County's eighth traffic victim. The accident occurred on Route 23 near DuPont Road south of here at 11:30 a.m. yesterday.

one-car crash is Mrs. Ruth Marvane Lewis, 35, of Columbus.

Mrs. Lewis was alone in the car when it veered out of control, for no apparent reason, crashing into a utility pole along the road.

Mrs. Lewis died in St. Anthony Hospital yesterday afternoon. She was the mother of a 13-year-old daughter, Laura Elaine. Her husband had died in 1961.

LAND TRANSACTION SIGNALS NEW PLANT HERE — Important preliminaries leading to the construction of a new Owens-Illinois Glass Co. shipping box plant in the Circleville community were conducted at this session by representatives from firms Shafer, secretary of the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co., for the purchase of land in Pickaway Twp. where the new E. E. Williams, assistant to the vice president, Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric; Dale DeLong, president of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce; Donald Colegrove, chairman of the Chamber's area development committee; and George B. Matt, representative of W. Lyman & Case Co., Columbus real estate broker firm. The meeting was held at the Columbus Plaza.

Close Study, Special Effort O-I Company History Goes Back to 1818

A decision by the Owens-Illinois Glass Co. to build a new box plant in this community was preceded by a considerable and comprehensive study of this and other areas.

Playing a prominent role in bringing the new plant here was Colomet, Inc., a subsidiary of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. This firm owns about 475 acres in Pickaway and Circleville Townships. The land has all been earmarked for industrial purposes.

A tract of about 33 acres was sold Friday by Colomet to Owens-Illinois. The glass company also purchased more than six acres of adjacent land from the Norfolk & Western Railway, another firm that extended full cooperation in bringing the plant to this community.

The two acquisitions of land in Pickaway Twp. will give Owens-Illinois 40 acres on which to construct its 186,000 square-foot building. Cost of the plant will be in excess of $1 million.

COLOMET, an area development department within the structure of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric, conducted exploratory talks and studies with O-I representatives for several months before the final decision was made.

Spearheading the deliberations were W. C. (Bill) Welch, director of Colomet, and Andy L. Lowry, assistant director. They, along with N & W officials, worked in close cooperation with Owens-Illinois representatives.

Also taking part in the preliminary program that led to establishment of the plant here were members of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce and local industrial executives.

Both Welch and Lowry today extended gratitude to local industrial officials and other persons who provided essential information while the plant site study was in progress. They termed the cooperation a vital part of a program that was brought to a successful conclusion.

The successful completion was realized in Columbus Friday when Owens-Illinois purchased the two tracts from Colomet and the N & W. It was termed a happy occasion by all parties concerned, including the Circleville delegation.

Circleville representatives included Dale DeLong, president of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce; Donald Colegrove, chairman of the Chamber's area development committee; Eldred Parsons, manager of the local Electric Co. office; and a member of the development committee; and Paul Smallwood and Richard Davis of The Herald.

OWENS-ILLINOIS was represented by Donald J. Koepfer of the firm's real estate department. Electric Co. officials were G. C. Shafer, secretary; E. E. Williams, assistant to the vice president; and Welch and Lowry.

John B. Anderson, industrial agent from Roanoke, Va., represented the Norfolk & Western Railway Co.

Barry Winds Up Vacation Afloat

NEWPORT, B E A C H, Calif. (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater winds up a week-long floating vacation today after staking out foreign policy as a key target in his campaign against President Johnson.

He said the speech with which Johnson accepted the Democratic presidential nomination last Thursday "was a clear withdrawal from leadership in international affairs." He called it an "isolationist acceptance speech."

On Saturday he accused Johnson of trying "to avoid all questions regarding foreign policy."

Humphrey Displays Cow Pasture Humor

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson took vice presidential candidate and Mrs. Huber Humphrey on a tour of the LBJ Ranch Sunday.

Everything didn't go according to plan, however. One misstep in the cow pasture and Humphrey exclaimed: "I've just stepped on the Republican platform."

Philly Notes Uneasy Quiet

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A tense, uneasy quiet returned to the riot-ravaged Negro section of North Philadelphia today, after a weekend of violence, looting, and pillaging.

Sporadic vandalism, window smashing and throwing of rocks at police continued into the early morning hours, but city and police officials said the situation remained under control and the four-square-mile trouble zone was returning to relatively normal operations.

Some 1,500 police saturated the area, which remained under a 24-hour curfew.

Mayor H.J. Tate emphasized that a clear-the-streets order, issued Saturday, remained in effect. The proclamation, falling under an 1850 law, made it a misdemeanor, with a maximum penalty of two years in prison, for anyone to be on the streets without legitimate business.

Tate, in a progress statement late Sunday night, reported that 225 stores had been looted and more than 350 persons arrested for various violations. The injured totaled 247, including 66 policemen. Almost all of the injuries were minor and there were no fatalities.

One shooting was reported. Police said Robert Green, a 21-year-old Negro, was wounded Saturday night when he pulled a knife on a patrolman who was chasing persons throwing cans at a patrol car.

Tate estimated "several millions of dollars" in damages and other costs caused by the rioting, which broke out Friday night. The mayor, pledged "the full assistance of the city administration in helping the affected merchants get back to normal operations as soon as possible."

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called upon the federal government to investigate the riots in Philadelphia as well as in other northern cities, suggesting that the riots were planned.

Ohio Collision Fatal to 5

NAPOLÉON, Ohio (AP)—Five persons—four of them members of an Inker, Mich., family—were killed early today in the head-on collision of two cars on U. S. 24 about 10 miles east of here.

Henry County Sheriff Fred H. Bartels identified the dead as: Mrs. Louise Gullede, 45; her sons Ray Clifford, 20, the driver, and Dale, 6; and a daughter, Wayne, 15, and the driver of the other car, John Shiner, 19, of Defiance, Ohio.

Injured in the Gullede car and in critical condition at Wood County Hospital in Bowling Green were Joe Gullede, 54, the husband, and Virgil Sanders, 37, Mrs. Gullede's brother. A passenger in Shiner's car, William Heller, 20, of Sherwood, was in serious condition at Defiance Hospital.

New Facility Operation Set For Early '65

Cost Is Estimated To Exceed $1 Million; 130 Employees Eyed

Owens-Illinois Glass Co. of Toledo will build a new corrugated shipping box plant two miles south of Circleville and east of Route 23. The site is in Pickaway Twp.

Plans for the new plant were officially announced today by R. H. Mulford, president of Owens-Illinois. The facility is part of a program designed to help meet the growing demand for corrugated boxes.

Construction will begin Tuesday and the plant is expected to be in production by the spring of 1965. The Circleville installation will employ approximately 130 people.

The Owens-Illinois facility here will be a 186,000 square-foot plant which will cost in excess of $1 million. It will be equipped with the latest machines and equipment for making corrugated boxes for shipping products ranging in size from small automotive parts to furniture and major appliances.

An 85-inch corrugator will manufacture A, B and C flute. The plant also will have highly automated die cutting and partition assembly equipment.

THE NEW Circleville plant will be part of the Owens-Illinois Forest Products Division, North Central Region, headed by Henry C. Rudy of Toledo, division vice president.

The plant will be strategically located in order to serve the rapidly growing central and southern Ohio industrial areas. It will be Owens-Illinois' 77th domestic plant and its 21st for the production of corrugated boxes.

Rudy said the great industrial growth in central and southern Ohio makes the area an ideal place in which to build a modern corrugated box plant such as this. "Our new plant at Circleville is an expression of Owens-Illinois' confidence in the continuing growth of this area's economy," he said.

The new industry is the second for the Circleville community in less than three years. The Owens-Illinois installation will be built on a 40-acre site near the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plant that was constructed starting late in 1961.

Land for the new plant was purchased from Colomet, Inc., a subsidiary of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co., and the Norfolk & Western Railway. The site is on the N&W's main line.

Sale of the land was completed last Friday in Columbus, with officials from Owens-Illinois, Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric and the N & W taking part. Also present were representatives from Circleville, including Area Chamber of Commerce president Dale DeLong; Eldred Parsons, manager of the local Electric Co. office; and Donald Colegrove, manager of the General Telephone Co. office here and chairman of the Chamber's area development committee.

RUDY said the Circleville plant will obtain the containerboard used in making corrugated boxes from the five Owens-Illinois paper mills in Jatte, O.; Big Island, Va.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Tomahawk, Wis.; and Valdosta, Ga., as well as other Ohio paper mills.

Completion of the new Forest Products Division plant will send the total number of Ohioans employed by Owens-Illinois past the 6,000 mark. Other O-I facilities in the state include the general offices, the Technical Center, the Duraglass Center, an ink and die plant and the Libbey glass tableware plant, all in Toledo; a glass television bulb plant in Columbus; and the Jatte paper mill.

George B. Matt of W. Lyman Case & Co., Columbus, was the real estate broker in the land transaction.

Ohio Traffic Kills 14

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—At least 14 persons were killed in Ohio highway accidents last weekend. Three others died in miscellaneous mishaps.

The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. William Steele, all of Circleville.

The maternal grandmother already is in Hawaii, while her husband will accompany Jimmy Carpenter on the flight scheduled to depart from Port Columbus about 10 a.m. Tuesday. They will arrive in Honolulu about midnight, following stopovers in Chicago and Los Angeles.

The great grandfather has promised friends he will try and get a photo of himself holding his two new great grandsons. "Three bald-headed kids... what a picture!" he chuckled.

More Mass Demonstrations Loom in Troubled Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A student leader today threatened new mass demonstrations if the ruling triumvirate names men to the promised National Assembly who are unacceptable to the students.

Ton That Tue, a member of the newly formed Leadership Council of Saigon students, told a news conference such demonstrations would be organized only as a last resort.

Le Dinh Dieu Cam, a vice president in the new student organization, said students considered the triumvirate created last week unstable but added that the students, for the sake of "solidarity of the people, will support the government for two months. The appointment of Dr. Nguyen Xuan Oanh, 43, as acting premier gave a semblance of stability to the government. Whether the Harvard-educated economist would remain at the helm remained uncertain.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor flew Sunday to the mountain resort of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon, to confer with ailing Premier Nguyen Khanh.

Arabs To Back Greeks in Fuss Against Turks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—President Makarios won a pledge of support today from the United Arab Republic in his dispute with Turkish Cypriots on troubled Cyprus as anti-American demonstrations continued in Turkey.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser also warned against outside interference in the island's affairs, said a joint communique issued in Alexandria at the conclusion of talks between Nasser and Makarios.

Nasser did not specifically pledge military support, however.

Nasser's pledge to Makarios came on the heels of renewed demonstrations in Turkey's key cities.

The United Arab Republic thus followed the lead of Greece and the Soviet Union in promising help if Cyprus were invaded by Turkey.

O-I Company History Goes Back to 1818

Owens-Illinois Glass Co., scheduled to start immediate construction of a new corrugated shipping box plant two miles south of Circleville, has a long and noted industrial background.

The plant here will be a part of the firm's Forest Products Division. Owens-Illinois is rated the 79th largest industrial company in the United States.

The company can trace its history back to 1818, the year the New England Glass Co. was founded at Cambridge, Mass. That company later became the Libbey Glass Co. and Edward Drummond Libbey moved it from Cambridge to Toledo in 1888 in order to be close to fuel supplies.

Michael J. Owens—a native of West Virginia who was a highly skilled glassblower while still in his teens and later was a union organizer—became superintendent of the Libbey plant soon after its transfer to Toledo.

DISSATISFIED with the hand-blown methods by which all glass was then made, Owens began experimenting with machine-blown glass. In 1903 he invented the first automatic glass bottle-making machine, considered the most revolutionary development in glass-making since the blowpipe was invented more than 2,000 years ago.

Libbey, Owens and associates organized the Owens Bottle Machine Co. to manufacture the revolutionary glass-making machine. Later the company began producing bottles, too. It changed its name to the "Owens Bottle Company" and in 1929 became Owens-Illinois with the acquisition of the Illinois Glass Co.

THE NEW Circleville plant will be part of the Owens-Illinois Forest Products Division, North Central Region, headed by Henry C. Rudy of Toledo, division vice president.

The plant will be strategically located in order to serve the rapidly growing central and southern Ohio industrial areas. It will be Owens-Illinois' 77th domestic plant and its 21st for the production of corrugated boxes.

Rudy said the great industrial growth in central and southern Ohio makes the area an ideal place in which to build a modern corrugated box plant such as this. "Our new plant at Circleville is an expression of Owens-Illinois' confidence in the continuing growth of this area's economy," he said.

The new industry is the second for the Circleville community in less than three years. The Owens-Illinois installation will be built on a 40-acre site near the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plant that was constructed starting late in 1961.

Land for the new plant was purchased from Colomet, Inc., a subsidiary of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co., and the Norfolk & Western Railway. The site is on the N&W's main line.

Sale of the land was completed last Friday in Columbus, with officials from Owens-Illinois, Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric and the N & W taking part. Also present were representatives from Circleville, including Area Chamber of Commerce president Dale DeLong; Eldred Parsons, manager of the local Electric Co. office; and Donald Colegrove, manager of the General Telephone Co. office here and chairman of the Chamber's area development committee.

RUDY said the Circleville plant will obtain the container-board used in making corrugated boxes from the five Owens-Illinois paper mills in Jatte, O.; Big Island, Va.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Tomahawk, Wis.; and Valdosta, Ga., as well as other Ohio paper mills.

Completion of the new Forest Products Division plant will send the total number of Ohioans employed by Owens-Illinois past the 6,000 mark. Other O-I facilities in the state include the general offices, the Technical Center, the Duraglass Center, an ink and die plant and the Libbey glass tableware plant, all in Toledo; a glass television bulb plant in Columbus; and the Jatte paper mill.

George B. Matt of W. Lyman Case & Co., Columbus, was the real estate broker in the land transaction.

OHIO Traffic Kills 14

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—At least 14 persons were killed in Ohio highway accidents last weekend. Three others died in miscellaneous mishaps.

Fatal Crash Under Probe By Patrol

Officials of the State Highway Patrol are still seeking the cause of an accident that claimed Pickaway County's eighth traffic victim. The accident occurred on Route 23 near DuPont Road south of here at 11:30 a. m. yesterday.

Dead as a result of head and internal injuries suffered in the one-car crash is Mrs. Ruth Marvane Lewis, 35, of Columbus.

Mrs. Lewis was alone in the car when it veered out of control, for no apparent reason, crashing into a utility pole along the road.

Mrs. Lewis died in St. Anthony Hospital yesterday afternoon. She was the mother of a 13-year-old daughter, Laura Elaine. Her husband had died in 1961.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by two sisters. Funeral arrangements are being completed by the O. R. Woodyard Funeral Home, 255 E. State St.

Philly Notes Uneasy Quiet

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A tense, uneasy quiet returned to the riot-ravaged Negro section of North Philadelphia today, after a weekend of violence, looting, and pillaging.

Sporadic vandalism, window smashing and throwing of rocks at police continued into the early morning hours, but city and police officials said the situation remained under control and the four-square-mile trouble zone was returning to relatively normal operations.

Some 1,500 police saturated the area, which remained under a 24-hour curfew.

Mayor H. J. Tate emphasized that a clear-the-streets order, issued Saturday, remained in effect. The proclamation, falling under an 1850 law, made it a misdemeanor, with a maximum penalty of two years in prison, for anyone to be on the streets without legitimate business.

Tate, in a progress statement late Sunday night, reported that 225 stores had been looted and more than 350 persons arrested for various violations. The injured totaled 247, including 66 policemen. Almost all of the injuries were minor and there were no fatalities.

One shooting was reported. Police said Robert Green, a 21-year-old Negro, was wounded Saturday night when he pulled a knife on a patrolman who was chasing persons throwing cans at a patrol car.

Tate estimated "several millions of dollars" in damages and other costs caused by the rioting, which broke out Friday night. The mayor, pledged "the full assistance of the city administration in helping the affected merchants get back to normal operations as soon as possible."

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called upon the federal government to investigate the riots in Philadelphia as well as in other northern cities, suggesting that the riots were planned.

Woman Assured Prompt Service

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Patrolman Bobby Davis was standing in the parking lot of the Safety Building shortly before midnight Saturday, waiting to turn his cruiser over to an oncoming crew.

As he talked to two other policemen, he heard footsteps approaching him and he started to turn. A woman hit him in the mouth.

The woman later explained she was tired and didn't have any place to stay. She thought if she hit a policeman she'd be put in jail.

She was.

Earthmen Urged To Talk to Space

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—A British physicist suggested today that earthmen ought to be sending signals into space, just in case anyone is out there listening.

Dr. D. M. A. Mercer, lecturer at Southampton University, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science that life may exist in other solar systems.

"The most likely way for one intelligent world to try to contact another would be to send out unmanned spaceships loaded with computers and scientific information ready to give and receive information," Dr. Mercer said.

Barry Winds Up Vacation Afloat

NEWPORT, B. E. A. C. H., Calif. (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater winds up a week-long floating vacation today after staking out foreign policy as a key target in his campaign against President Johnson.

He said the speech with which Johnson accepted the Democratic presidential nomination last Thursday "was a clear withdrawal from leadership in international affairs." He called it an "isolationist acceptance speech."

On Saturday he accused Johnson of trying "to avoid all questions regarding foreign policy."

Humphrey Displays Cow Pasture Humor

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson took vice presidential candidate and Mrs. Huber Humphrey on a tour of the LBJ Ranch Sunday.

Everything didn't go according to plan, however. One misstep in the cow pasture and Humphrey exclaimed: "I've just stepped on the Republican platform."

FDA Issues Warning on Water Proofer

The Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, today asked local health and safety officials for help in removing from the market an extremely flammable masonry water proofer.

Officials requested that any knowledge of "X-33 Water Repellent" be reported to the Pickaway County Health Department.

Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick said that "X-33" has caused three deaths and more than 30 injuries through flash explosions.

To date, the Government has seized almost 500 shipments of the misbranded "X-33". However, it is estimated that up to 1,200 shipments of the product may still be in possession of hardware stores, lumber yards, filling stations, auto supply houses, grocery stores, drug stores, and feed and grain dealers.

While the "X-33" produced under a different formula since July 1963 is not as flammable as the older product, labels on the cans do not indicate which product is which, the FDA said.

Larrick recommended that persons who voluntarily decide to get rid of their stocks of "X-33" should consult the local fire departments regarding safe procedures for destroying such material.

Officers said the two men apparently had been drag racing just prior to the accident. Both autos were moderately damaged, they added.

The driver who left the scene was involved in an accident along the 400 block of E. Main St. at 4:24 p. m. Saturday. A license plate registration check by police disclosed that the car is owned by Albie Robbins, Route 2, Thurman, O.

A collision at 12:11 a. m. Sunday on Western Ave. just south of W. Main St. led to the arrest of Ada Louise Heeter, 41, Route 6, Chillicothe. Police said her car struck a parked vehicle. She was cited for failure to have assured clear distance ahead.

The Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, today asked local health and safety officials for help in removing from the market an extremely flammable masonry water proofer.

Officials requested that any knowledge of "X-33 Water Repellent" be reported to the Pickaway County Health Department.

Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick said that "X-33" has caused three deaths and more than 30 injuries through flash explosions.

To date, the Government has seized almost 500 shipments of the misbranded "X-33". However, it is estimated that up to 1,200 shipments of the product may still be in possession of hardware stores, lumber yards, filling stations, auto supply houses, grocery stores, drug stores, and feed and grain dealers.

While the "X-33" produced under a different formula since July 1953 is not as flammable as the older product, labels on the cans do not indicate which product is which, the FDA said.

Larrick recommended that persons who voluntarily decide to get rid of their stocks of "X-33" should consult the local fire departments regarding safe procedures for destroying such material.

Here Are Johnson's Views On Variety of Subjects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following are the views of President Johnson on a variety of issues, as expressed in speeches, magazine articles, news conferences and other public remarks and messages:

AGRICULTURE
In a nationwide television broadcast April 24, 1956, speaking in reply to a speech by President Dwight D. Eisenhower on his veto of a Democratic farm bill, Senate Majority Leader Johnson said:

"Since 1952, wages have gone up; corporate dividends have gone up; the entire national income has gone up. But the income of the farmer has gone down 26 per cent."

"The worker who is making refrigerator and television sets will sooner or later be out of work if there is no one to buy them. But if the farmer can't make a living, the farmer can't buy these things. If he can't buy them, that cuts the market down. And that means workers will be thrown out of jobs."

"The farmer's income must be bolstered, not only for the farmer's sake, but for your sake. Otherwise we may spin into another depression."

In a message to congress on Agriculture, Jan. 31, 1964, Johnson said:

"The agricultural commodity programs developed during the past 30 years have served us well. They are now an indispensable bulwark of our agricultural economy. Without them our food supply would be much less secure than it is today."

"But they are in need of improvement. New conditions arising from the technological revolution in agriculture present a special challenge—a challenge based upon the problems of abundance rather than scarcity. "We must also look beyond agriculture to rural America as a whole. Fifty-five million Americans live in rural areas. Too many of them have not had an opportunity to acquire the education, skills and earning power which their talents warrant. For too many of them the rural environment has proved a hindrance to a full life, rather than the advantage it rightly can be. We have made great progress in recent years—but we can and must do better."

CIVIL RIGHTS
On March 9, 1949, speaking of a proposal by President Harry S. Truman for a civil rights law, Sen. Johnson told the Senate:

"This civil rights question brings into play all those strong and evil forces of racial prejudice. Perhaps no prejudice is so contagious or so dangerous as the unreasoning prejudice against men because of their birth, the color of their skin, or their ancestral background. Racial prejudice is dangerous because it is a disease of the majority, endangering minority groups. "When we of the South arise here to speak against the civil rights proposals, we are not speaking against the Negro race. We are not attempting to keep alive the old flames of hatred and bigotry. We are, instead, trying to prevent those flames from being rekindled. We are trying to tell the rest of the nation that this is not the way to accomplish what so many want to do for the Negro."

In a speech at San Angelo, Tex., Dec. 12, 1958, Johnson said he was opposed to forced integration, but he added:

"We're a little late in our section in recognizing that all men are created equal. I wish the hotheads on both sides would give us a chance to evolve a solution to this problem."

In explaining his vote for the 1957 civil rights bill, Johnson said, "I voted for the civil rights bill because I think everyone ought to have the right to vote, whether he's white or brown or black."

In early 1959, Senate Majority Leader Johnson came up with his own civil rights proposals, including a provision for a Community Relations Service. He explained this in a Texas radio speech, Feb. 8, 1959:

"Basically, the duty of the Community Relations Service would be to provide conciliation assistance where conflicts regarding constitutional rights are disrupting or threatening to disrupt peaceful relations in the community."

As vice president, in a speech at Wayne State University, Mich., Jan. 6, 1963, Johnson discussed the Civil War and said:

"Today, as then, we are engaged in a great struggle. We too hear counsel urging restraint and urging delay. We too are counseled that for the government of the United States to concern itself with the equality of its citizens invites the risk of impairing the chance for success in our struggle to uphold the cause of freedom in the world."

"The counsel of delay is not the counsel of courage. A government conceived and dedicated to the purpose that all men are born free and equal cannot pervert its mission by rephrasing the purpose to suggest that men shall be free today—but shall be equal a little later."

On Nov. 27, 1963, in his first speech as President to a joint session of Congress, Johnson said:

"No memorial oration or eulogy could more eloquently honor President Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought so long. We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights. We have talked for 100 years or more. It is time now to write the next chapter, and to write it in the books of law."

On July 2, as he signed the civil rights bill, Johnson said: "Americans of every race and color have worked to build a nation of widening opportunities. Now our generation of Americans has been called on to continue the unending search for justice within our borders."

On July 28, 1964, in a speech to a group of educators at the White House, Johnson said: "We must and shall maintain respect for law and order in America, but democracy never has and never will solve its problems at the end of a billy club. Our land is young, our strength is great, our course is far from run, yet there is discontent among our people reaching through our whole society."

CUBA
In a speech March 24, 1964, to the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Conference in Washington, Johnson departed from his prepared text to say this about Cuba:

"The water problem that disturbed us at Guantanamo was solved not by a battalion of Marines bayoneting their way in to turn on the water, but we sent a single admiral over to cut it off. I can say to you that our base is self-sufficient. By lean readiness, a source of danger and disagreement has been removed."

On April 20, 1964, speaking to the annual meeting of The Associated Press in New York, he had this to say about Cuba:

"The use of Cuba as a base for subversion and terror is an obstacle to our hopes for the hemisphere. Our first task must be, as it has been to isolate Cuba from the inter-American system, frustrate its efforts to destroy free governments, and expose for all to see the ugliness of communism. That policy is working. The problems of this hemisphere would be far more serious if Castro sat in the councils of the OAS, disrupting debate and blocking decision—if he had open channels of trade and communications along which subversion and terror could flow—if his economy had been a successful model rather than a dismal warning. The effectiveness of our policy is more than a matter of trade statistics. It has increased awareness of difference and danger, revealed the brutal nature of the Cuban regime, lessened opportunities for subversion, reduced the number of Castro's followers, and drained the resources of our adversaries."

DISARMAMENT
In a speech June 8, 1957, to the annual conference of the United Jewish Appeal in New York, Johnson said:

"The intercontinental ballistic missile with a hydrogen warhead is just over the horizon. It is no longer just the disorderly dream of some science-fiction writer. "We must assume that our country will have no monopoly on this weapon. The Soviets have not matched our achievements in democracy and prosperity; but they have kept pace with us in building the tools of destruction."

"We must initiate action on five objectives, each contributing to our crusade for disarmament: "1. Controlled reduction of military forces by all countries. "2. A start on a mutual 'open skies,' foolproof inspection system. "3. A frank and open search for a method of suspending tests of the biggest nuclear weapons, under airtight conditions which give full protection against violations. "4. A reduction of everyone's stockpile of nuclear weapons and means for delivery under copper-riveted methods of mutual inspection. "5. And this is the key to ultimate hope: A worldwide agreement—backed by absolute safeguards—that no nation will make any new fissionable materials for weapons purposes—neither the three present nuclear powers nor those who may soon have the capacity."

On Jan. 21, 1964, President Johnson commented over nationwide television on the disarmament conference in Geneva:

"There's enough blame to go around. The decision to impound funds was a mistake. The decision by Congress a year later not to carry through on the issue was another mistake, and the failure of the country to rise up and insist that Congress take the leadership was still another. "In a Senate speech Jan. 23, 1958, Johnson said: "There can be no adequate defense for the United States except in a reservoir of trained and educated minds. "Even more important, however, is the fact that there can be no security for the United States or any other country in weapons. The most accurate and destructive missile yet conceived can bring us nothing but stalemate."

DEFENSE
In a Senate speech, July 12, 1950, speaking of the Korean War which had just broken out, Johnson said: "There is no cheap way out. "There is, in fact, no way out short of total victory. "We cannot compromise; we cannot retreat. "For too long, we have been more interested in making our books balance than in making our strength balance against the military power of communism. "In an interview in U.S. News & World Report in April 1952, Johnson complained again about economy efforts hurting defense. He said: "But in the field of aircraft production, I think it is fair to say we have lost almost three years as a result of the 1948 decision to impound funds that Congress appropriated to keep the plants toiled up and productive. "There's enough blame to go around. The decision to impound funds was a mistake. The decision by Congress a year later not to carry through on the issue was another mistake, and the failure of the country to rise up and insist that Congress take the leadership was still another."

SCIENCE SHRINKS PILES
New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

"We prefer a stalemate to defeat and slavery. Let there be no mistake about that."

In a speech April 20, 1964, to the annual meeting of The Associated Press in New York, he said:

"Since Korea we have labored to build a military strength of unmatched might. We have succeeded. If the threat of war has lessened, it is largely because our opponents realize attack would bring destruction. This effort has been costly. But the costs of weakness are far greater than the costs of strength, and the payment was far more painful. That is why, in the last three years, your government has strengthened the whole range of America's defenses — increasing defense spending by $17 billion."

DISARMAMENT
In a speech June 8, 1957, to the annual conference of the United Jewish Appeal in New York, Johnson said:

"The intercontinental ballistic missile with a hydrogen warhead is just over the horizon. It is no longer just the disorderly dream of some science-fiction writer. "We must assume that our country will have no monopoly on this weapon. The Soviets have not matched our achievements in democracy and prosperity; but they have kept pace with us in building the tools of destruction."

"We must initiate action on five objectives, each contributing to our crusade for disarmament: "1. Controlled reduction of military forces by all countries. "2. A start on a mutual 'open skies,' foolproof inspection system. "3. A frank and open search for a method of suspending tests of the biggest nuclear weapons, under airtight conditions which give full protection against violations. "4. A reduction of everyone's stockpile of nuclear weapons and means for delivery under copper-riveted methods of mutual inspection. "5. And this is the key to ultimate hope: A worldwide agreement—backed by absolute safeguards—that no nation will make any new fissionable materials for weapons purposes—neither the three present nuclear powers nor those who may soon have the capacity."

On Jan. 21, 1964, President Johnson commented over nationwide television on the disarmament conference in Geneva:

"There's enough blame to go around. The decision to impound funds was a mistake. The decision by Congress a year later not to carry through on the issue was another mistake, and the failure of the country to rise up and insist that Congress take the leadership was still another. "In a Senate speech Jan. 23, 1958, Johnson said: "There can be no adequate defense for the United States except in a reservoir of trained and educated minds. "Even more important, however, is the fact that there can be no security for the United States or any other country in weapons. The most accurate and destructive missile yet conceived can bring us nothing but stalemate."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year's political campaign is the kind that can get out of control. The potshots from both sides, with the possibility of one word leading to another, have the built-in potential of an explosion.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, after calling his rival, President Johnson, a phony and the "biggest faker in the United States," said he will conduct the campaign solely on the issues and will not engage in "personal attack."

But his team is attacking. Goldwater's vice-presidential running-mate, Rep. William E. Miller, says Johnson's wealth makes his integrity subject to "some question" and that he hopes integrity and morality in office would always be an issue.

Sunday Dean Bruch, Goldwater's handpicked chairman of the Republican National Committee, called Johnson "cynical" and said the way the President got his wealth "raises a very singular moral question." On the "Face the Nation" television show Bruch said of Johnson in connection with Negro riots in Northern cities so far this year: "He is not the type of example that lends itself to absolute law and order."

"I think that cynicism has been established by his going along with the idea that let's stop the riots until Nov. 3, until the election is over, and then you can have all the riots you want."

Bruch was asked whether he was seriously suggesting that Johnson just wants a moratorium until Nov. 3 on rioting and after that has no concern about the matter.

"No," Bruch said, "I would not suggest that he has no concern. But I would certainly suggest he wants a moratorium on rioting."

Johnson, in accepting the Democratic presidential nomination last week, never mentioned Goldwater's name and told the nation the Democrats wanted no part of "fear or smear."

But his speech contained a lot of indirect assaults on Goldwater whom he pictured as a reactionary without naming him. At the same time Johnson talked of turning the other cheek.

Yet, Goldwater had previously provoked him into an angry retort by criticizing Johnson's handling of Viet Nam. The President said Goldwater had committed a disservice to the country and the world.

It's doubtful Johnson will be able to maintain throughout the campaign the same kind of aloofness he tried in his acceptance speech if he has to put up with much of the Goldwater-Miller-Burch kind of attack.

If he gets harsh with Goldwater it's going to be interesting to see how the Arizona senator stands up under it. Goldwater has already been given a taste of what he can expect from Sen.

Here Are Johnson's Views On Variety of Subjects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following are the views of President Johnson on a variety of issues, as expressed in speeches, magazine articles, news conferences and other public remarks and messages:

AGRICULTURE

In a nationwide television broadcast April 24, 1956, speaking in reply to a speech by President Dwight D. Eisenhower on his veto of a Democratic farm bill, Senate Majority Leader Johnson said:

"Since 1952, wages have gone up; corporate dividends have gone up; the entire national income has gone up. But the income of the farmer has gone down 26 per cent."

"The worker who is making refrigerator and television sets will sooner or later be out of work if there is no one to buy them. But if the farmer can't buy these things, if he can't buy them, that cuts the market down. And that means workers will be thrown out of jobs."

"The farmer's income must be bolstered, not only for the farmer's sake, but for your sake. Otherwise we may spin into another depression."

In a message to congress on Agriculture, Jan. 31, 1964, Johnson said:

"The agricultural commodity programs developed during the past 30 years have served us well. They are now an indispensable bulwark of our agricultural economy. Without them our food supply would be much less secure than it is today."

"But they are in need of improvement. New conditions arising from the technological revolution in agriculture present a special challenge—a challenge based upon the problems of abundance rather than scarcity."

"We must also look beyond agriculture to rural America as a whole. Fifty-five million Americans live in rural areas. Too many of them have not had an opportunity to acquire the education, skills and earning power which their talents warrant. For too many of them the rural environment has proved a hindrance to a full life, rather than the advantage it rightly can be. We have made great progress in recent years—but we can and must do better."

CIVIL RIGHTS

On March 9, 1949, speaking of a proposal by President Harry S. Truman for a civil rights law, Sen. Johnson told the Senate:

"This civil rights question brings into play all those strong and evil forces of racial prejudice. Perhaps no prejudice is so contagious or so dangerous as the unreasoning prejudice against men because of their birth, the color of their skin, or their ancestral background. Racial prejudice is dangerous because it is a disease of the majority, endangering minority groups."

"When we of the South arise here to speak against the civil rights proposals, we are not speaking against the Negro race. We are not attempting to keep alive the old flames of hatred and bigotry. We are, instead, trying to prevent those flames from being rekindled. We are trying to tell the rest of the nation that this is not the way to accomplish what so many want to do for the Negro."

In a speech at San Angelo, Tex., Dec. 12, 1958, Johnson said he was opposed to forced integration, but he added:

"We're a little late in our section in recognizing that all men are created equal. I wish the hotheads on both sides would give us a chance to evolve a solution to this problem."

In explaining his vote for the 1957 civil rights bill, Johnson said, "I voted for the civil rights bill because I think everyone ought to have the right to vote, whether he's white or brown or black."

In early 1959, Senate Majority Leader Johnson came up with his own civil rights proposals, including a provision for a Community Relations Service. He explained this in a Texas radio speech, Feb. 8, 1959:

"Basically, the duty of the Community Relations Service would be to provide conciliation assistance where conflicts regarding constitutional rights are disrupting or threatening to disrupt peaceful relations in the community."

As vice president, in a speech at Wayne State University, Mich., Jan. 6, 1963, Johnson discussed the Civil War and said:

"Today, as then, we are engaged in a great struggle. We too hear counsel urging restraint and urging delay. We too are counseled that for the government of the United States to concern itself with the equality of its citizens invites the risk of impairing the chance for success in our struggle to uphold the cause of freedom in the world."

"The counsel of delay is not the counsel of courage. A government conceived and dedicated to the purpose that all men are born free and equal cannot pervert its mission by rephrasing the purpose to suggest that men shall be free today—but shall be equal a little later."

On Nov. 27, 1963, in his first speech as President to a joint session of Congress, Johnson said:

"No memorial oration or eulogy could more eloquently honor President Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought so long. We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights. We have talked for 100 years or more. It is time now to write the next chapter, and to write it in the books of law."

On July 2, as he signed the civil rights bill, Johnson said:

"Americans of every race and color have worked to build a nation of widening opportunities. Now our generation of Americans has been called on to continue the unending search for justice within our borders."

On July 28, 1964, in a speech to a group of educators at the White House, Johnson said:

"We must and shall maintain respect for law and order in America, but democracy never has and never will solve its problems at the end of a billy club. Our land is young, our strength is great, our course is far from run, yet there is discontent among our people reaching through our whole society."

CUBA

In a speech March 24, 1964, to the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Conference in Washington, Johnson departed from his prepared text to say this about Cuba:

"The water problem that disturbed us at Guantanamo was solved not by a battalion of Marines bayoneting their way in to turn on the water, but we sent a single admiral over to cut it off. I can say to you that our base is self-sufficient. By lean readiness, a source of danger and disagreement has been removed."

On April 20, 1964, speaking to the annual meeting of The Associated Press in New York, he had this to say about Cuba:

"The use of Cuba as a base for subversion and terror is an obstacle to our hopes for the hemisphere. Our first task must be, as it has been to isolate Cuba from the inter-American system, frustrate its efforts to destroy free governments, and expose for all to see the ugliness of communism. That policy is working. The problems of this hemisphere would be far more serious if Castro sat in the councils of the OAS, disrupting debate and blocking decision—if he had open channels of trade and communications along which subversion and terror could flow—if his economy had been a successful model rather than a dismal warning. The effectiveness of our policy is more than a matter of trade statistics. It has increased awareness of difference and danger, revealed the brutal nature of the Cuban regime, lessened opportunities for subversion, reduced the number of Castro's followers, and drained the resources of our adversaries."

DISARMAMENT

In a speech June 8, 1957, to the annual conference of the United Jewish Appeal in New York, Johnson said:

"The intercontinental ballistic missile with a hydrogen warhead is just over the horizon. It is no longer just the disorderly dream of some science-fiction writer."

"1. Controlled reduction of military forces by all countries."

"2. A start on a mutual 'open skies,' foolproof inspection system."

"3. A frank and open search for a method of suspending tests of the biggest nuclear weapons, under airtight conditions which give full protection against violations."

"5. And this is the key to ultimate hope: A worldwide agreement—backed by absolute safeguards—that no nation will make any new fissionable materials for weapons purposes—neither the three present nuclear powers nor those who may soon have the capacity."

Today is Monday, Aug. 31, the 244th day of 1964. There are 122 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1902, the historic Danbury, Conn., Hatters' Lawsuit started, brought by companies claiming damages from a labor boycott. The companies were awarded the decision, years later upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

On this date In 1894, Japanese warships bombarded Port Arthur, Manchuria.

In 1914, German armies defeated the Russians in the battle of Tannenberg.

In 1940, the British Royal Air Force made its first attack on the center of Berlin.

In 1942, German field marshal Erwin Rommel started his final attack in Egypt—his last African offensive.

In 1944, Sen. Harry Truman of Missouri accepted the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Ten years ago—Hurricane Carol struck eastern Long Island and New England, killing 68 persons and causing $500 million damage.

Five years ago—Indian Prime Minister Nehru rejected demands in parliament for immediate military retaliation against Chinese Communist aggression on India's northern frontier.

Hubert H. Humphrey. On the same night Johnson in Atlantic City was urging against "fear or smear" and fixing his oratorical eyes on lofty goals, Humphrey, accepting the vice-presidential nomination, went after Goldwater barehanded and by name.

He accused him of extremism, passion, radical language, recklessness, and being out of step with a majority of the Republicans in Congress.

Among the first pieces of equipment politicians usually acquire are shock-absorbers but this campaign looks like a rocky road for all concerned, so rocky that explosions even this early look like a safe prediction.

By JACK LEFLER
By Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) Threats of crippling strikes hung over the automobile and railroad industries this week.

However, a continuation of negotiations raised hopes that work stoppages could be avoided.

The United Auto Workers singled out Chrysler Corp. as its No. 1 strike target and suggested the deadline for agreement on a new contract be extended to Sept. 9. Current contracts expire Aug. 31.

It is a practice in automobile industry negotiations for the union to select one of the Big Three automakers as the prime target. It puts the company on a spot, because if a strike occurs its rivals can go on making cars.

An agreement with one firm usually sets the pattern for the industry.

Walter Reuther, UAW president, said Chrysler, General Motors and Ford had adopted "a narrow, selfish attitude" in negotiations and were denying workers their fair share of record profits.

The companies have offered pay raises ranging from 18 to 36 cents an hour over three years and improvements in pensions, vacations and other fringe benefits.

Six railroad craft unions have set a strike for as early as Sept. 6. Negotiations arranged by a federal mediator are expected to get under way Monday.

Job protection is the issue. Involved are six unions, with 41,000 members, representing boiler makers, electrical workers, machinists, sheet metal workers, carmen, firemen and oilers.

In another business-labor development, a strike against Pan American World Airways lasted just one day.

The walkout was called by the Transport Workers Union, which represents 10,500 ground and flight employees among Pan Am's 25,000 workers, in a dispute over wages and benefits.

Many flights were canceled before agreement was reached and union members went back to work.

The automakers stepped up production in order to get as many 1963 models in dealers' hands as possible before a strike.

Production this week was estimated at 95,400 passenger cars, compared with 40,870 last week.

Sales continued to run at a strong pace with dealers delivering 206,000 domestic-made cars in the Aug. 11-20 period.

This was the best mid-August record since 1955, when 213,000 cars were sold.

With the automobile industry bearing down, steel orders were expected to climb more sharply next month.

Steelmakers turned out 2,392,000 tons last week, a gain of 5 per cent over the previous week.

An Interstate Commerce Commission hearing examiner recommended that the Great Northern Railway, the Northern Pacific Railway and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad be permitted to merge.

The combination would create a 250,000-mile system, the nation's largest.

The recommendation is subject to review by the full commission.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ON THE SECOND floor of a huge cigarette factory the secret formula for the company's most popular brand of tobacco, tar, charcoal, and heaven knows what else. Then the finished product was funneled into a huge steel conveyor to the ground floor where the actual cigarettes were produced and packaged.

One day the top scientist produced a brand new secret ingredient to be added to the mixture, then pointed to the steel conveyor. "Okay, men," he ordered, "put THAT in your smoke and pipe it!"

Proud but easy-going Brazilians, says John Dos Passos, like to tell this story on themselves. When the Lord Jehovah had finished making Brazil he couldn't help boasting a little to one of his henchmen. He had planted the greatest forests, laid out the biggest rivers, built the most magnificent mountains, bays, and beaches—then added untold treasures of gold, iron, and diamonds. "Is it fair, Lord," asked the archangel, "to give so many benefits to just one country?"

"You wait," chuckled the Lord Jehovah, "till you see the people I'm going to put there!"

Casey Stengel, enigmatic and frequently unintelligible skipper of the horrendous New York Mets, gave this (for him) clear-as-a-bell advice to a rookie recently: "Like I told you before, boy, if you can't imitate a guy, don't copy him!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The letters DPT represent one of our greatest accomplishments in the safe-guarding of the health of our children.

D (diphtheria), P (pertussis, or whooping cough), and T (tetanus) are now preventable diseases because of safe and successful vaccines.

There is still only one factor that allows these diseases to take an unnecessary yearly toll in illness and even in death. That is the carelessness, neglect and apathy that counteract the remarkable victories against DPT by the failure to be immunized.

It is pathetic and deplorable that there are still today about 15,000,000 pre-school children who are incompletely, inadequately immunized, or are completely deprived of the available protective immunizations. Six out of every ten children under the age of five are being needlessly exposed to the dangers of disease by "putting off" vaccination.

Added to these statistics is the inexcusable failure to protect against polio.

Even the painful memories of young polio victims in wheel chairs or with legs in braces apparently do not sufficiently affect some people, who still continue to disregard the importance of using these successful vaccines. Thousands of children have not yet been given the advantage of this protection, one of medicine's all-time great contributions to mankind.

Public health officials are desperately waging an all-out educational campaign against the unconcerned indifference of parents and guardians who deny their children the advantages of these precious health safeguards.

The United States Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Georgia, is directing its efforts toward the lower economic group. The rate of immunization among children in this group is about 50 per cent less than among more privileged children.

But health should not be, must not be, and is not a special privilege. Protection against these dread diseases is available free of charge to every single person in America.

The only cost is a few minutes of time—hardly an unreasonable price to pay for the gift of health.

Teen-Age Goals Revealed

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

At the age of 25, some 35 per cent of Americans need to wear glasses.

What are the goals of teen-age girls? A study showed that most want to be either housewives or airline hostesses. Only one in five preferred office work.

Teen-age boys, on the other hand, showed interest in careers in aviation, professional athletics, business, the armed forces, and engineering. Missing among the top 20 occupational choices of male high school seniors were roles as scientist, newspaperman, doctor, minister, teacher—or president of the United States.

Twenty million Americans are taking care of 650 million pet fish.

Quotable notables: "Worry affects the circulation, the heart, the glands, the whole nervous system. I have never known a man who died from overwork, but many who died from doubt."—Dr. Charles H. Mayo.

Nature notes: Rodents cause more property damage than tornadoes. A rattlesnake usually grows two, not one, rattles each year. Meadowlarks aren't true larks—they belong to the blackbird family. Giraffes have such poor voices they "talk" to each other by switching their tails.

U.N. medical studies indicate that the United States now has passed France as the world's most alcoholic nation. One out of 20 Americans is thought to be a problem drinker.

"There are more oil glands per square inch on a woman's face than there are oil wells in Texas," says Dr. John R. Haserick, Cleveland skin specialist.

The originator of the presidential "whistle-stop campaign" was William Jennings Bryan. In 1896 he traveled 18,000 miles by railroad and made 600 speeches. William McKinley waged a back-porch campaign—and won handsily.

Folklore: If you see a red-haired girl, you will soon see a white horse. If you throw a small fish back into the water, it will tell the other fish, and no more will bite. It is bad luck to kill a daddy-longlegs or a ladybug. If a girl gets the front of her dress wet while doing her laundry, she will marry a drunkard.

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "The books that the world calls immoral are books that show the world its own shame."

Man at Barry's Elbow

By John Chamberlain

Barry Goldwater has a lot of know-how and know-what going for him in his immediate entourage. The question is how well will he use it?

There is Ed Nellor, his press secretary, for example. Almost everyone has forgotten it by now, but it was Ed Nellor who, as a Washington correspondent in 1948, was responsible for breaking the Alger Hiss case.

It happened this way. Ed Nellor, in scouting around Washington, had learned that a man named Whittaker Chambers had been taken by Isaac Don Levine, a veteran anti-Stalinist, to see Adolf Berle in the State Department at the time of the Nazi-Soviet pact. Chambers had warned Berle that Communists had infiltrated the State Department. He named some names, trying to soften his blows a bit by referring to "Marxist study groups." When Berle passed the information up to President Roosevelt, he was, in effect, told to go fly a kite. Accordingly, the story did not break and nothing was done about Chambers' warnings.

Nine years went by, and Stalin had been behaving in a menacing way for a long time, when Ed Nellor wrote in the New York Sun that the House Un-American Activities Committee might really learn something about Communist subversion if it would only issue a subpoena to a prominent editor of a prominent news magazine.

I happened to be in Whittaker Chambers' desk, Chambers Magazine when the Sun, with Ed Nellor's story, was placed on Chambers' desk. Chambers turned white when he read it. "This means me," he said.

Making light of it, I remarked that people would only think well of the Chambers' patriotism if he went to Washington and told what he knew of the Communist conspiracy. (I did not, at the time, know anything about Chambers' connection with Alger Hiss.) Chambers refused to be jockeyed out of his depression over the Nellor story. "I always feared I'd have to cross this bridge," he said, "but I hoped not to." Then, looking down the hall toward the office of a ranking time editor he added glumly: "Besides, people around here don't like informers."

In due course, the subpoena to Chambers was issued. The Hiss case broke upon a startled nation, and, in time, Chambers wrote "Witness" his masterly Dostoevskian study of the operations of Communism in America which paid due attention to the dilemmas of a delicate conscience torn between the necessity of warning the nation and a candid distaste for exposing old friends.

The point about bringing up this episode from Ed Nellor's journalistic past is that Barry Goldwater has at his elbow a man who knows a great deal about the machinations of the Communist enemy. Maybe Nellor could make something of a piece by Harold P. Green, a lawyer and professor of law at George Washington University who was with the Atomic Energy Commission from 1950 to 1954. Writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists for May, 1964, Mr. Green says, "I am personally aware of several cases in which the AEC has granted clearance to persons unable to obtain clearance in other agencies or persons who were discharged on security grounds by other agencies; or cases in which grave security problems were found by other agencies in the backgrounds of persons previously cleared by the AEC with full knowledge of the derogatory information which so troubled the other agencies."

Mr. Green apparently thinks rather well of the AEC for not having a "savage security program." He says "the concept of security has come a long way since the nightmarish aberrations of the early Eisenhower years." A Barry Goldwater who has recently looked with favor upon the foreign policy record of the Eisenhower-Dulles Administration, which protected Lebanon and refused to sacrifice Quemoy and Matsu, might not interpret the Eisenhower "concept of security" as a "nightmarish aberration." And maybe Barry Goldwater's Ed Nellor should suggest another subpoena.

ON THE SECOND floor of a huge cigarette factory the secret formula for the company's most popular brand was concocted—a mixture of tobacco, tar, charcoal, and heaven knows what else. Then the finished product was funneled into a huge steel conveyor to the ground floor where the actual cigarettes were produced and packaged.

One day the top scientist produced a brand new secret ingredient to be added to the mixture, then pointed to the steel conveyor. "Okay, men," he ordered, "put THAT in your smoke and pipe it!"

The letters DPT represent one of our greatest accomplishments in the safe-guarding of the health of our children.

D (diphtheria), P (pertussis, or whooping cough), and T (tetanus) are now preventable diseases because of safe and successful vaccines.

There is still only one factor that allows these diseases to take an unnecessary yearly toll in illness and even in death. That is the carelessness, neglect and apathy that counteract the remarkable victories against DPT by the failure to be immunized.

It is pathetic and deplorable that there are still today about 15,000,000 pre-school children who are completely, inadequately immunized, or are completely deprived of the available protective immunizations. Six out of every ten children under the age of five are being needlessly exposed to the dangers of disease by "putting off" vac-

Can you afford not to protect your child against these crippling and killing diseases?

Where can one get free immunization?

Vaccination is available to everyone who seeks it. No one, regardless of financial status, need be deprived of these vaccinations.

Physicians and hospital clinics, in cooperation with local and federal public health agencies, will arrange for free preventive inoculations. In most instances the only cost is a telephone call or letter.

How soon after birth should infants be immunized?

The schedule of vaccination is fairly flexible. In general diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio inoculations may be started any time after the infant is about one and a half months old. Smallpox vaccination should be performed before the child is one year old.

Sulky Races To Highlight State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The start of four days of harness racing highlighted today's attractions at the 111th Ohio State Fair, with the $25,600 Ohio State Trot the featured race on the seven race card.

Fourteen 2-year-old standard-breds were entered in today's feature, which will consist of two elimination heats with the first five finishers in each heat going for the big money in the showdown mile.

Rican Ros, with Johnny Cation in the sulky, was favored in the first heat. Le Flame, driven by Bruce Nickells, was given the nod in the second division.

The fair's racing scheduled will be climaxed Thursday by the $24,000 Governor's Cup for 3-year-old trotters.

But the horse set wasn't the only group attracted to today's fair program. More than 1,200 handicapped youngsters were expected to be on the fairgrounds as the exhibition observed its 10th annual Crippled Children's Day.

The children, representing between 50 and 55 Ohio counties were to be guests at a luncheon and admitted to all rides on the midway free of charge.

One rather spectacular feature scheduled today was a "car drop," in which a car suspended at a height of 125 feet was to be released to crash onto a second car pointed upward.

Aim of the demonstration, sponsored by the State Highway Safety Department, was to show what happens when two cars traveling at 62 miles an hour crash head-on. The cars were to be put on display after the crash.

Fair attendance figures indicated the crowds for the first three days are running slightly larger than those of a year ago.

Unofficial figures for Friday, Saturday and Sunday showed a total of 278,768 persons have gone through the gates so far, compared to 278,439 during the first three days of last year.

Of these, 120,868 were paid attendance this year, compared with 126,374 for the first three days of last year.

Sunday was Press Day, and members of the news media and their families were admitted free. But attendance was smaller Sunday than 1963's Press Day. Figures were 57,855 paid and 98,855 total, while Press Day last year had 64,582 paid and 103,582 total.

Two more fair queens were crowned Sunday. Linda Graf-miller, 18-year-old Ohio State University co-ed from Columbus, was named "Miss Wool of Ohio," and Martha Brian, Columbus Dispatch reporter, was honored as "Miss Press Headquarters."

They will join other queens crowned during the fair in the "Queen of Queens" pageant Thursday night, from which next year's "Miss Ohio State Fair" will be selected.

Winners in various events included: James P. Bernard, 18, of Sabina, exhibited the grand champion barrow.

Merl Berry, 17, Rt. 2, Logan, exhibited the grand champion entry of potatoes in junior fair FFA division.

Members of the families of Mr. nad Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, 584 Woodland Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dresbach, 412 E. Mound St., attended Baccalaureate and Graduation exercises when Miss Mary Anne Johnson completed her training at The Miami Valley Hospital School of Nursing, Dayton.

German Friends Puzzled By Dr. Sam's New Wife

By JOHN FIEHN

DUISBURG, Germany (AP)—The much-publicized romance and marriage of Mrs. Ariane Tebbenjohanns and Dr. Sam Sheppard has her family and friends in Germany puzzled.

"Both her Mother and I are completely puzzled," said Theo Habermann, her stepfather.

And a close friend, very much concerned about her, said: "We were all baffled by her decision to marry a man 5,000 miles away—an American!"

Mrs. Tebbenjohanns struck up a pen-friendship with the Cleveland osteopath while he was serving a prison term for the killing of his wife.

Friends here are under the impression that she "fought like a lioness for his release," as they put it.

She did this at considerable personal and financial sacrifice, according to well-informed sources here who scoffed at reports that she is a rich woman. They said her resources are "comfortable" but she would not be classed a wealthy, as the term is understood in this rich Ruby city.

"There wasn't a person this reporter questioned in talking with relatives, friends and acquaintances who did not profess to have warned Mrs. Tebbenjohanns against marrying Dr. Sheppard.

"In spite of her mother's warning, in spite of all I said against that marriage, she went with it," said Habermann. Mrs. Ritschel, born Hedwig Ulanowski, refused to talk to reporters.

"My wife is very unhappy about it all," confided Habermann. "She's afraid of publicity and doesn't want to discuss her daughter's activities in public."

He also termed it "highly improbable" that his wife would visit her daughter in the United States soon. "No such trip is contemplated," he firmly stated.

The objection most people here voiced to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns' marriage is that the whole affair was contrary to her solid middleclass upbringing.

"To marry a man she did not know other than through newspaper reports—a convicted man—seems so out of the ordinary cannot but object," Habermann said in summing up his and his wife's feelings.

An old woman, who knew her from the cradle, said: "We all warned her. But now that she married Sheppard, I'm convinced she'll make a wonderful wife for him. He won't find a better one. She's a typical German hausfrau."

Habermann described his step-daughter this way: "She is an obedient and dedicated wife, a good housekeeper and a loving mother."

Nobody here could offer an explanation for why Ariane Tebbenjohanns became the new Mrs. Sheppard.

"She's a determined woman," a close friend said. "Once she's made a decision, once she's set her sights on something, no obstacle can stop her."

The future of the marriage, friends and relatives here said, now will hinge entirely on Dr. Sheppard.

"As far as she is concerned, she will endure every hardship—if necessary—for the man she loves." This was the unanimous opinion.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Scent of Controversy!

DEAR ABBY: Though I am supposed to solve political problems, I have one which I have wrestled with for some time and I need help. It pertains to skunks.

Two of my grandsons want to adopt skunks. I told them that I would go along with them. Confidentially, I even encouraged them. When I was young, I used to trap skunks (Some people say I still do). A good de-scented skunk, regardless of his politics, is not too bad to have around the house. However, Mrs. Pearson objects. She says she will not tolerate skunks in our home. Since my grandsons are visiting us this summer, and I did promise them some skunks, what is your advice?

DREW PEARSON

DEAR MR. PEARSON: A promise is a promise. Get the grandsons the skunks. They make wonderful pets! But be sure they're deodorized—otherwise I predict your life won't be worth a scent!

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and I hope you won't think my problem is too silly to answer. You see, my parents do not allow me to date a boy unless he is the same faith as I am. You can't always tell by their looks, or even by their names, and I don't think it is very nice to come right out and ask a person what church he belongs to. Yet there would be no sense in starting to like a boy who doesn't go to my church because, if he liked me, I couldn't date him anyway. So how can I find out what religion a boy is without coming right out and asking him?

PHILADELPHIA

DEAR PHILADELPHIA: There is nothing wrong with "coming right out and asking him." In fact, that's the best way to get an honest answer to a serious question.

DEAR ABBY: I am the youngest of six children. And to make matters worse I was a "change of life" baby, and it was almost like being an only child. My mother was 51 years old when I was born. Well, whenever my mother introduced me to any of her friends, she says, "... and this is my baby." I am 36 years old, Abby, and this is pretty embarrassing. Should I correct my mother?

200-POUND BABY

DEAR BABY: Your mother is lucky to have a 36-year-old "baby," and you are even luckier to have an 87-year-old mother. I don't recommend correcting one's mother—at any age.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE CLAIRO KID ON LAKE CALHOUN": No woman who has been "39" for the past ten years has the right to call a car dealer a crook because he set the speedometer back.

CLOTHES VALET — It has hanging space for suit jacket and pants, too. An aid that encourages good grooming, a characteristic that rates at the top of the list of what teen girls want most in a date.

Suave Type Admired by Teen Girls

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

I've got news for you, fellows. Girls go for the suave type every time.

They like a boy who dresses well. In girl talk this means a suit, shirt and tie for a big date. They dote on that old-world charm to which, I hear tell, they're so unaccustomed.

It involves such thoughtful bits as opening doors, helping her on with her coat, treating her, in general, like a sweet, fragile fluff of femininity.

If such facts surprise you, then the one thing you're not is an expert on girls. They're sticklers or the niceties of life, which is what makes them so appealing.

If you don't notice hearts fluttering and pulses quickening when you have into sight, could be there's one thing you really should do. Shape up!

Appearance-wise, oily skin presents a problem that's not appealing. Don't just live with it. Do something about it.

Wash your face three or four times a day with an anti-bacterial liquid cream cleanser containing hexachlorophene. You can get it at the drug store.

If blemishes appear, cover them up with a skin-covered cream. They won't be apparent and, in case you're worried about your he-man rating, neither will the cream. It's skin-colored, remember?

Showering daily, using the same liquid cleanser as a wash, will keep in check another unpleasant problem, perspiration.

Changing underclothing daily and using deodorant will help, too.

Flaky dandruff is no asset. Consider it this way — would Troy Donahue permit it to settle on his lapel?

If it's your problem, wash hair twice weekly with a medicated shampoo. A new one does an especially good job.

Banish a beard if you want girls to think you're a smoothie. Shave often to keep your face free of five o'clock shadow.

Brush teeth after every meal when you can. When you can't wish a good mouth wash around in the mouth to keep breath kissing sweet.

Watch those fingernails. Don't let them show signs of the grease job you just gave the car. Dirty nails are unsightly.

Keep your shoes shined and watch those socks. No holes allowed, no loud colors, either. Socks should be a subdued shade. Wear orange ones only if your ankles are irresistible and you want everyone to notice them.

Keep your wardrobe in wearable shape. Like, hang up your clothes!

A clothes valet is a help here. It will hold an entire outfit.

A new one has a tailored-angled jacket hanger and a rounded trouser bar that keeps clothes wrinkle-free. It also has a tray for loose change, your wallet and cuff links, a bar for belts and ties and a rack for shoes.

It's a great aid and, because it's right there and ready to use it even eliminates the need for you to strain yourself opening the closet door when it's time for you to hang things up.

You may think this is idle talk but think again. A poll taken among 8,000 high school students in 44 states revealed that neatness is a characteristic that rates right at the top of the list of what teen girls want most in a date.

Only pleasing personality and politeness rated higher.

Handsome features — and this may surprise you, Dreamboat — were listed last on a list of twelve traits considered most desirable.

Sulky Races To Highlight State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The start of four days of harness racing highlighted today's attractions at the 111th Ohio State Fair, with the $25,600 Ohio State Trot the featured race on the seven race card.

Fourteen 2-year-old standardbreds were entered in today's feature, which will consist of two elimination heats with the first five finishers in each heat going for the big money in the showdown mile.

Rican Ros, with Johnny Cation in the sulky, was favored in the first heat. Le Flame, driven by Bruce Nickells, was given the nod in the second division.

The fair's racing scheduled will be climaxed Thursday by the $24,000 Governor's Cup for 3-year-old trotters.

But the horse set wasn't the only group attracted to today's fair program. More than 1,200 handicapped youngsters were expected to be on the fairgrounds as the exhibition observed its 10th annual Crippled Children's Day.

The children, representing between 50 and 55 Ohio counties were to be guests at a luncheon and admitted to all rides on the midway free of charge.

One rather spectacular feature scheduled today was a "car drop," in which a car suspended at a height of 125 feet was to be released to crash onto a second car pointed upward.

Aim of the demonstration, sponsored by the State Highway Safety Department, was to show what happens when two cars traveling at 62 miles an hour crash head-on. The cars were to be put on display after the crash.

Fair attendance figures indicated the crowds for the first three days are running slightly larger than those of a year ago.

Unofficial figures for Friday, Saturday and Sunday showed that a total of 278,768 persons have gone through the gates so far, compared to 278,439 during the first three days of last year. Of these, 120,868 were paid attendance this year, compared with 126,374 for the first three days of last year.

Sunday was Press Day, and members of the news media and their families were admitted free. But attendance was smaller Sunday than 1963's Press Day. Figures were 57,855 paid and 98,855 total, while Press Day last year had 64,582 paid and 103,582 total.

Two more fair queens were crowned Sunday. Linda Grafmiller, 18-year-old Ohio State University co-ed from Columbus, was named "Miss Wool of Ohio," and Martha Brian, Columbus Dispatch reporter, was honored as "Miss Press Headquarters."

They will join other queens crowned during the fair in the "Queen of Queens" pageant Thursday night, from which next year's "Miss Ohio State Fair" will be selected.

Winners in various events included: James P. Bernard, 18, of Sabina, exhibited the grand champion barrow.

Merl Berry, 17, Rt. 2, Logan, exhibited the grand champion entry of potatoes in junior fair FFA division.

German Friends Puzzled By Dr. Sam's New Wife

By JOHN FIEHN

DUISBURG, Germany (AP)—The much-publicized romance and marriage of Mrs. Ariane Tebbenjohanns and Dr. Sam Sheppard has her family and friends in Germany puzzled.

"Both her Mother and I are completely puzzled," said Theo Habermann, her stepfather.

And a close friend, very much concerned about her, said: "We were all baffled by her decision to marry a man 5,000 miles away—an American!"

Mrs. Tebbenjohanns struck up a pen-friendship with the Cleveland osteopath while he was serving a prison term for the killing of his wife.

Friends here are under the impression that she "fought like a lioness for his release," as they put it.

She did this at considerable personal and financial sacrifices, according to well-informed sources here who scoffed at reports that she is a rich woman. They said her resources are "comfortable" but she would not be classed as a wealthy, as the term is understood in this rich Ruby city.

There wasn't a person this reporter questioned in talking with relatives, friends and acquaintances who did not profess to have warned Mrs. Tebbenjohanns against marrying Dr. Sheppard.

"In spite of her mother's warning, in spite of all I said against that marriage, she went with it," said Habermann. Mrs. Habermann, the former Mrs. Ritschel, born Hedwig Ulanowski, refused to talk to reporters.

"My wife is very unhappy about it all," confided Habermann. "She's afraid of publicity and doesn't want to discuss her daughter's activities in public."

He also termed it "highly improbable" that his wife would visit her daughter in the United States soon. "No such trip is contemplated," he firmly stated.

The objection most people here voiced to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns' marriage is that the whole affair was contrary to her solid middleclass upbringing.

"To marry a man she did not know other than through newspaper reports—a convicted man—seems so out of the ordinary cannot but object," Habermann said in summing up his and his wife's feelings.

An old woman, who knew her from the cradle, said:

"We all warned her. But now that she married Sheppard, I'm convinced she'll make a wonderful wife for him. He won't find a better one. She's a typical German hausfrau."

Habermann described his stepdaughter this way:

"She is an obedient and dedicated wife, a good housekeeper and a loving mother."

Nobody here could offer an explanation for why Ariane Tebbenjohanns became the new Mrs. Sheppard.

"She's a determined woman," a close friend said. "Once she's made a decision, once she's set her sights on something, no obstacle can stop her."

The future of the marriage, friends and relatives here said, now will hinge entirely on Dr. Sheppard.

"As far as she is concerned, she will endure every hardship—if necessary—for the man she loves." This was the unanimous opinion.

Death Toll Reaches 3 In Toledo Collision

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The death toll in a two-car collision early Sunday in Washington Township west of Toledo rose to three last night when 4-year-old Patty Driscoll died in Toledo Hospital.

Driscoll was driving one of the cars. The other driver, Casper L. McNich, 25, of Toledo, and his passenger, Katherine Gross, 31, Toledo, also were reported in fair condition.

Woods Boys Standing Out On Professional Gridiron

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York's professional football teams aren't out of the Woods yet — and they won't be for some time if Giants coach Allie Sherman and Jets pilot Weeb Ewbank have their way.

The Woods, 5-foot-11 Gary of the Giants and 6-foot-5 Dick of the Jets, quarterbacked their clubs to impressive victories Saturday as the National and American Football Leagues moved through another week-end of exhibitions prior to mid-September season openers.

Gary Wood, filling in for hobbled Y. A. Tittle, threw three touchdown passes as the Giants trimmed Philadelphia 28-17 at Princeton, N.J., for their first NFL pre-season success in four starts. Dick Wood also fired three scoring strikes in the Jets' 34-6 rout of AFL champion San Diego at Atlanta.

A Dallas crowd of 60,057 — the largest since the Chicago All-Star game early in the month — watched the Cowboys take a 35-3 beating from Green Bay while Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 16-14 and unbeaten Minnesota outscored Los Angeles 34-23 in other NFL games.

Oakland took an AFL decision from Houston 34-20 in the first pre-game ever played at Las Vegas.

Gary Wood, a 22-year-old rookie from Cornell whom Sherman retained while releasing Glynn Griffing, Tittle's 1963 sub, when the Giants trimmed their roster last week, replaced the veteran pass-master early in the second period Saturday.

Tittle threw a scoring pass to Dick James before twisting his left knee, the same one he hurt in last December's NFL title game. This time, the injury appeared to be slight while affording Wood a chance to impress.

the coach as a ready and able reliever.

The Ivy Leaguer completed 11 of 24 passes for 193 yards.

Dick Wood, 28-year-old former Charger, wrecked his old club with two payoff passes to Don Maynard and another to Bake Turner that covered 54 yards. The big Auburn grad hit on 12 of 28 tosses for 152 yards. Jim Turner added two field goals as the Jets ran their exhibition slate to 3-1.

Chillicothe Wins Little Loop Tourney

Circleville Stars Edged, 3-1, in Final Competition

The Circleville Little League All-Stars ended their season on a losing note when they lost 3-1 yesterday to the Chillicothe Merchants in the finals of the Circleville Tournament.

The locals managed a second chance at the Merchants who had won the winners bracket by topping Circleville in an earlier game. The locals came up through the losers bracket to gain the finals.

Circleville managed one hit and it prevented the shutout. Ty Ankrum powered a homerun in the second inning and Circleville took an early 1-0 lead.

Losing pitcher Paul Tassler held the Merchants scoreless until the sixth inning. Then they erupted for three runs.

THE LOCALS committed three errors. Tassler allowed three hits, walked one and fanned nine.

Jeff Smith was the winning pitcher, firing his one-hitter. He walked two batters and fanned 11. The Merchants team didn't commit a single error.

Maxwell and Relsinger tagged doubles for the winners and Smith poled a homerun.

Circleville advanced into the game, when they beat the Chillicothe Eagles Saturday by forfeit.

Ayres Gets Big Eye in Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Diminutive Ayres is an overwhelming favorite in a field of nine colts named for Wednesday's 39th edition of the Hambletonian, premier trotting race for 3-year-olds.

Ayres, a hot-rod son of the great Star's Pride, is so good that trainers of many would-be candidates were discouraged from posting a final $1,500 to enter.

As the result, the field is the smallest since nine went to the post in 1941. It is the first all-male line-up since 1950.

The blue ribbon event will be worth $115,281, seventh largest purse in its history, with a winner's share of $56,487.

There is no parimutuel betting at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds, but unofficially Ayres is an even-money choice.

Ayres, trained and reined by John Simpson, who won with Hockory Smoke in 1957, drew the No. 7 post, with Speedy Count getting No. 2 and Speedy Rodney No. 8.

Completing the line, including post positions are Dartmouth (No. 1); Big John (No. 3); Scribe Rodney (No. 4); Sasebo (No. 5); Rain Water (No. 6) and Bedevil (No. 9).

In nine starts this year, Ayres has been beaten only by 5-year-old Marco Hanover in a photo-finish. He avenged this defeat in his next start.

Ohio Rail Season Opening Is Near

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first of the fall hunting seasons opens Wednesday when gunners go after the little known rails and gallinules in the wetlands of the state.

The season opens at sunrise and extends through Oct. 1 and extends through Nov. 19 with sunrise to sunset the shooting hours (EST). The daily bag limit is 15 and possession 30.

Hunting for woodcock and Wilson's snipe opens Oct. 1 and extends through Nov. 19 with shooting hours also sunrise to sunset. Daily and possession for nite is 8 and 16, respectively; for woodcock it is 5 and 10.

Population of these birds is about the same as in 1963.

National Football League team will play only six night games this season.

EVEN MATCH — Ron Leatherwood (left) and Garner Cox check their score card at the end of 15 holes of play in the Upper Lansdowne golf tourney. At that point the match was even, but Cox went on to win the 16th and 17th holes and a shot at the Upper Lansdowne championship on Labor Day.

First Round Is Completed In Upper Lansdowne Tourney

The first round of play in the Upper Lansdowne Golf Links Club tournament has been completed.

round of play, scheduled to be completed this week, was a match yesterday between Ron Leatherwood and Garner Cox.

Cox won the match, 2 and 1, to earn a shot at the first flight championship. The battle between the two evenly matched golfers saw Leatherwood one up at the end of nine holes.

At the end of 15, the match was even. But Cox won the next two holes.

IN THE initial round of the flight, Leatherwood defeated George Ebbrecht, 7 and 6; Cox downed Abe Rihl, 9 and 8; Gale Leatherwood topped Dick Buskirk, 6 and 4; Dick Peters edged Red Mallory, 5 and 4.

Current plans call for championship matches in each flight on Labor Day.

Arnie, Jackie Threatened By Nichols

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Golf's new breed, personified by young Bobby Nichols, is threatening to create a runner-up complex for Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

Arnie and Big Jack had to be content with secondary paychecks again Sunday when Nichols, 28-year-old PGA champion, walked off with the game's biggest tournament haul of the year, the $35,000 first prize in the $200,000 Carling World Golf Championship.

Palmer finished second one stroke behind Nichols' winning 278 for four rounds over the tough Oakland Hills course.

It was the fifth time in the last seven tournaments that Palmer, the defending money-making champion, had come in second. In the other two tournaments, he was third.

"I'm getting darned tired of it," Palmer said. "I hope it doesn't become a habit."

Nicklaus, who hasn't won a major championship this year, fell farther behind. He tied for 11th and 28th and collected $2,800.

It was the first time in the last two months that he hadn't placed at least in the top six.

Since the Masters, which Palmer won, the Big Two have captured only three tournaments between them.

The $35,000 prize boosted Nichols into the top five of the money winners with $72,087.26. Palmer went to the head of the list, which he has led the last two years, with $110,743.37.

Madison Area Resident Wins Ringer Tourney

Robert Redding Posts 6-1 Record in Grueling Competition

Bob Redding, a Madison County horseshoe pitcher, won six matches while losing only one to cop the coveted first place trophy yesterday in the Class A division of the Pickaway Ringer Roundup.

Finishing in second place in the local event was George Dilgard of Crestline. He was the defending champion.

Dilgard and Gary Roberts of Waverly, who was third, both won five games while losing two. However, Dilgard tossed the most ringers on the pegs to edge into second.

The fourth place trophy went to Leonard Lenigar of Union Furnace.

THE GRUELING test of skill lasted a full five hours yesterday on the Fairgrounds courts, and was not decided until the final games were finished.

As the competitors began the last game, there was a possibility of the match ending in a four way tie for the game.

Both Dilgard and Redding were 5-1 at that time, while Roberts and Lenigar were 4-2.

Roberts had the high qualifying score of 247 in the event. Redding had qualified the top division with a 225 score.

In the class B competition Saturday, Carl Young was the winner. Charles Redding was second, Howard Bryant third and Tom Pearce fourth.

Tournament manager Dick Robbins noted there were still three classes remaining to be completed this week.

A TOTAL of 84 ringer flingers, including some of the best in central Ohio, were entered in the tournament this year.

The local event is probably the largest of its kind in the state, Robbins stated.

Clay-Liston Bout Ban Is Ignored

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A decision of the World Boxing Association to enforce a ban on a return Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston bout has drawn a "so what" reaction.

"We plan to enforce our ban of the return bout to our fullest extent," WBA Commissioner Abe J. Greene said at the wind-up of the group's convention last weekend.

"If that's the stand on the WBA, we'll ignore it," replied Harold Conrad, spokesman for Inter-Continental Promotions, an outfit in which Liston had stock that has the promotion rights for the Liston-Clay rematch.

Woods Boys Standing Out On Professional Gridiron

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York's professional football teams aren't out of the Woods yet — and they won't be for some time if Giants coach Allie Sherman and Jets pilot Weeb Ewbank have their way.

The Woods, 5-foot-11 Gary of the Giants and 6-foot-5 Dick of the Jets, quarterbacked their clubs to impressive victories Saturday as the National and American Football Leagues moved through another week-end of exhibitions prior to mid-September season openers.

Gary Wood, filling in for hobbled Y. A. Tittle, threw three touchdown passes as the Giants trimmed Philadelphia 28-17 at Princeton, N.J., for their first NFL pre-season success in four starts. Dick Wood also fired three scoring strikes in the Jets' 34-6 rout of AFL champion San Diego at Atlanta.

A Dallas crowd of 60,057 — the largest since the Chicago All-Star game early in the month — watched the Cowboys take a 35-3 beating from Green Bay while Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 16-14 and unbeaten Minnesota outscored Los Angeles 34-23 in other NFL games.

Oakland took an AFL decision from Houston 34-20 in the first pro-game ever played at Las Vegas.

Gary Wood, a 22-year-old rookie from Cornell whom Sherman retained while releasing Glynn Griffing, Tittle's 1963 sub, when the Giants trimmed their roster last week, replaced the veteran pass-master early in the second period Saturday.

Tittle threw a scoring pass to Dick James before twisting his left knee, the same one he hurt in last December's NFL title game. This time, the injury appeared to be slight while affording Wood a chance to impress the coach as a ready and able reliever.

Circleville Stars Edged, 3-1, in Final Competition

The Circleville Little League All-Stars ended their season on a losing note when they lost 3-1 yesterday to the Chillicothe Merchants in the finals of the Circleville Tournament.

The locals managed a second chance at the Merchants who had won the winners bracket by topping Circleville in an earlier game. The locals came up through the losers bracket to gain the finals.

Circleville managed one hit and it prevented the shutout. Ty Ankrum powered a homerun in the second inning and Circleville took an early 1-0 lead.

Losing pitcher Paul Tassler held the Merchants scoreless until the sixth inning. Then they erupted for three runs.

THE LOCALS committed three errors. Tassler allowed three hits, walked one and fanned nine.

Jeff Smith was the winning pitcher, firing his one-hitter. He walked two batters and fanned 11. The Merchants team didn't commit a single error.

Maxwell and Relsinger tagged doubles for the winners and Smith poled a homerun. Circleville advanced into the game, when they beat the Chillicothe Eagles Saturday by forfeit.

Ayres Gets Big Eye in Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Diminutive Ayres is an overwhelming favorite in a field of nine colts named for Wednesday's 39th edition of the Hambletonian, premier trotting race for 3-year-olds.

Ayres, a hot-rod son of the great Star's Pride, is so good that trainers of many would-be candidates were discouraged from posting a final $1,500 to enter.

As the result, the field is the smallest since nine went to the post in 1941. It is the first all-male line-up since 1950.

The blue ribbon event will be worth $115,281, seventh largest purse in its history, with a winner's share of $56,487.

There is no parimutuel betting at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds, but unofficially Ayres is an even-money choice.

Ayres, trained and reined by John Simpson, who won with Hockory Smoke in 1957, drew the No. 7 post, with Speedy Count getting No. 2 and Speedy Rodney No. 8.

Completing the line, including post positions are Dartmouth (No. 1); Big John (No. 3); Scribe Rodney (No. 4); Sasebo (No. 5); Rain Water (No. 6) and Bedevil (No. 9).

In nine starts this year, Ayres has been beaten only by 5-year-old Marco Hanover in a photo-finish. He avenged this defeat in his next start.

Chamber Agenda Is Heavy One

A heavy agenda is anticipated when Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce directors meet noon Tuesday for their regular monthly meeting.

It is expected that monorails will eventually be used in shopping centers and for high-speed inter-city and airport to city service.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Not all the humor that turns up in television's situation comedies is injected by the writers. Sometimes it is added by collaboration during rehearsals.

The other day on the "Andy Griffith Show" set, the sheriff of Mayberry and his new love, played by Anita Corsaut, were walking through a rehearsal, scripts in hand. The scene required Andy to take lingering leave of the girl in front of his office, to be joined inside by his deputy, played by Don Knotts.

The script had Andy leaning forward to kiss the girl, then turning away to enter the building.

"That's a little too much," frowned Griffith. "Wouldn't it be better if we sort of made love with our eyes a little bit? I just don't think we'd make physical love in public."

Director Al Rakkin agreed. Griffith thought for a minute, then added: "Wouldn't it be funnier if Don broke it up by walking between us? Let's try that."

They rehearsed the short scene again. Knotts rushed across the set, cut between the pair and disappeared into the building.

"Boy, that works better," said Griffith with a smile. "That felt wonderful. It's in character, because that's the sort of thing he would do, rush through like that to attract attention."

Each television series has worked out its own special techniques, and CBS' "Andy Griffith Show" during the past four seasons has learned what is best for its players. For one thing, they rehearse the show in sequence. (Most television shows, including Andy's, are filmed scene by scene according to the sets used, not the sequence of action.)

The sheriff of Mayberry, still an elusive widower, may well be television's most fickle character. Miss Corsaut will play his third — or is it fourth? — love interest.

Negotiations are in progress which might extend the life of the series for two more seasons after this, but Don Knotts definitely leaves at the end of this one. He already has signed contracts for films and other television work.

While our attention was diverted by the activities at Atlantic City, ABC announced a "major overhaul" of its daytime programming starting early in October. It consists of abandoning, after all those tear-stained years, "Queen for a Day," in favor of still another soap opera, "The Young Marrieds," and of changing the title of "The Tennessee Ernie Ford Show" to "Hello, Pea-Pickers."

The creative department of NBC has not been happy — it has changed the name of "The Jack Benny Show" to "The Jack Benny Program."

CORRUGATOR — Boxes to be produced by the new Owens-Illinois corrugated box plant here will get their start at this corrugator where paperboard is transformed into corrugated board. This 300-foot corrugator is equipped with the latest electronic devices for control of quality. It is capable of the top production speeds in the industry — running well in excess of 600 lineal feet per minute at a width of 85 inches. The roll of paperboard at left will serve as one face of the finished corrugated board. The roll just past the first control station is the corrugating medium — the "meat" in the corrugated "sandwich." A roll at the second control station provides the other face of the board.

CORRUGATED PERMANENT WAVE — The flutes, or wavy interior of corrugated boards, are applied in this section of the massive modern corrugator utilized by the Owens-Illinois Paper Products Division that will build a new plant south of Circleville. In a single operation the corrugating medium is shaped and glued to one face of the linerboard. In the next phase of production, the final face is added to complete the corrugated "sandwich."

Construction of the new plant is scheduled to start Tuesday and it is expected to be in production by the spring of 1965. The general contract has been awarded to the E. J. Benes Co. of Cleveland. Test boring work at the site has already started.

A groundbreaking ceremony has been tentatively set for next week. Officials from all firms and organizations concerned are expected to be here for the occasion.

Owens-Illinois executives have termed the great industrial growth in central and southern Ohio, along with the other favorable assets this area provides, as being among the reasons for locating here. They said the new Circleville plant is an expression of the firm's confidence of this locality's continuing economic growth.

The shipping box plant will be in the near vicinity of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant. The PPG resins and coatings facility was started here in October of 1961.

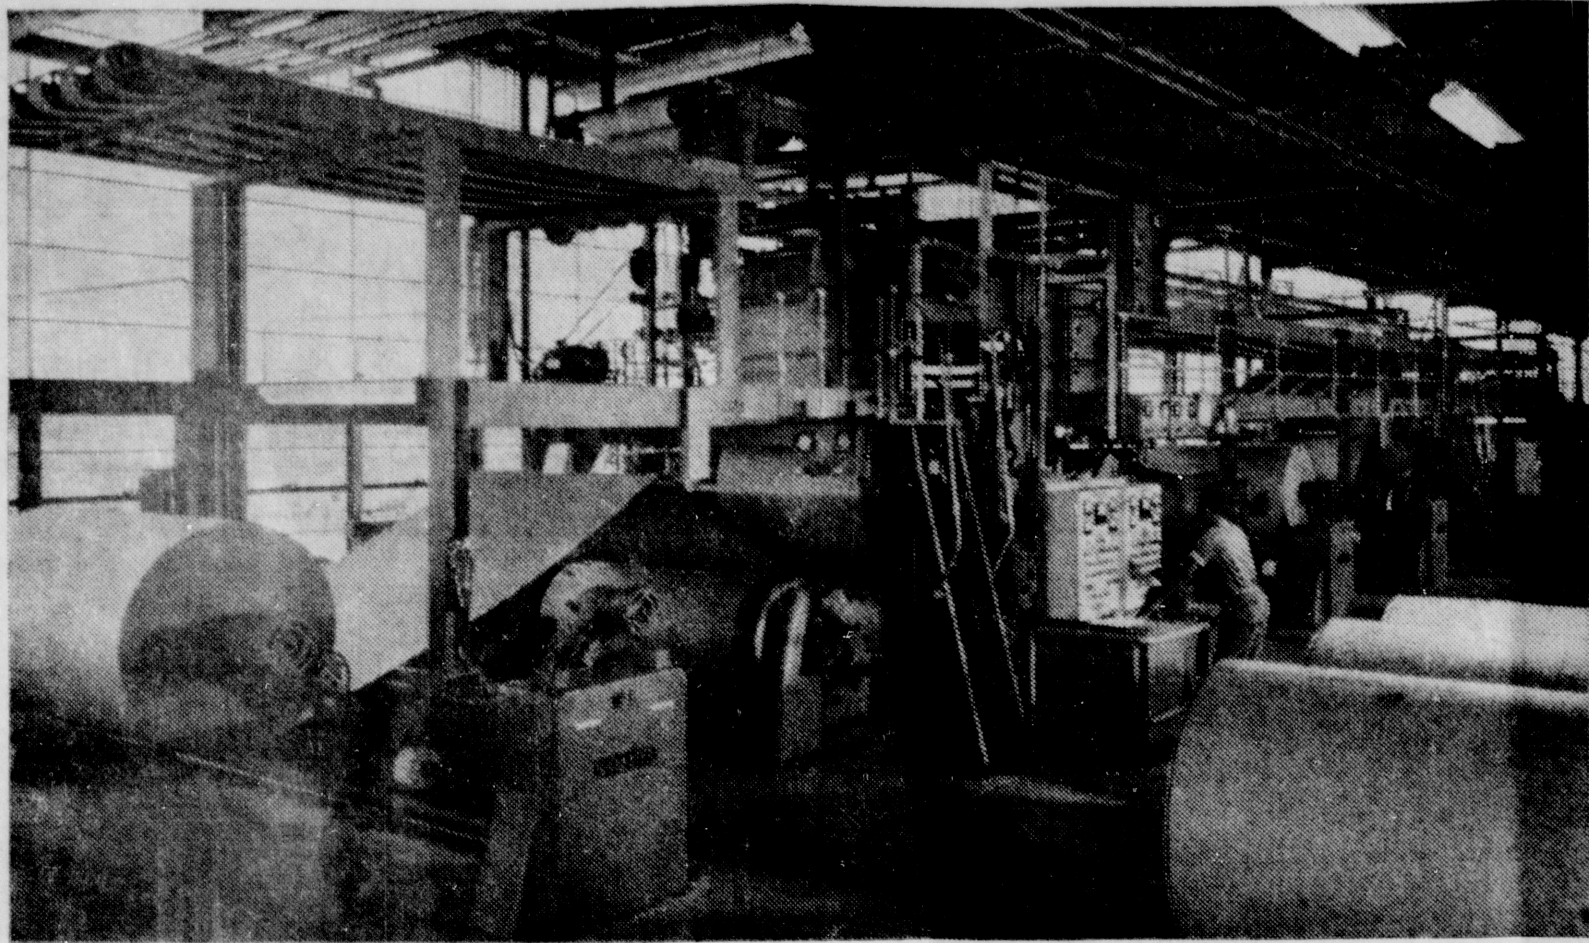

OWENS-ILLINOIS spokesmen said their firm and PPG have always enjoyed an excellent working relationship in industrial circles.

Future steps from the local side will be concentrated on the dedication of a road at the new plant site. The Chamber of Commerce has endorsed and will promote this project.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Not all the humor that turns up in television's situation comedies is injected by the writers. Sometimes it is added by collaboration during rehearsals.

The other day on the "Andy Griffith Show" set, the sheriff of Mayberry and his new love, played by Anita Corbitt, were walking through a rehearsal, scripts in hand. The scene required Andy to take a lingering leave of the girl in front of his office, to be joined inside by his deputy, played by Don Knotts.

The script had Andy leaning forward to kiss the girl, then turning away to enter the building.

"That's a little too much," frowned Griffith. "Wouldn't it be better if we sort of made love with our eyes a little bit? I just don't think we'd make physical love in public."

Director Al Rafkin agreed. Griffith thought for a minute, then added: "Wouldn't it be funnier if Don broke it up by walking between us? Let's try that."

They rehearsed the short scene again. Knotts rushed across the set, cut between the pair and disappeared into the building.

"Boy, that works better," said Griffith with a smile. "That felt wonderful. It's in character, because that's the sort of thing he would do, rush through like that to attract attention."

Each television series has worked out its own special techniques, and CBS' "Andy Griffith Show" during the past four seasons has learned what is best for its players. For one thing, they rehearse the show in sequence. (Most television shows, including Andy's, are filmed scene by scene according to the sets used, not the sequence of action.)

The sheriff of Mayberry, still an elusive widower, may well be television's most fickle character. Miss Corbitt will play his third — or is it fourth? — love interest.

Negotiations are in progress which might extend the life of the series for two more seasons after this, but Don Knotts definitely leaves at the end of this one. He already has signed contracts for films and other television work.

While our attention was diverted by the activities at Atlantic City, ABC announced a "major overhaul" of its daytime programming starting early in October. It consists of abandoning, after all those tear-stained years, "Queen for a Day," in favor of still another soap opera, "The Young Marrieds," and of changing the title of "The Tennessee Ernie Ford Show" to "Hello, Pea-Pickers."

The creative department of NBC has not been happy — it has changed the name of "The Jack Benny Show" to "The Jack Benny Program."

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The executive committee of the Ohio American Legion would like to see increased instruction in Ohio schools on the contrasts between life in America and communist countries.

The 35-member committee adopted a resolution Sunday urging state education officials to step up such teaching and asked the state board of education to prepare manuals on the subject and make them available to all high schools.

The committee also asked the Ohio Board of Regents to take steps to assure that state-supported colleges and universities are geared to certify teachers "fully equipped to instruct in this subject."

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther led his team to the bargaining table at Chrysler Corp. today, attempting to hammer out a pattern-setting contract for the industry.

Reuther met with Chrysler negotiators after the UAW chief apparently had put an end to a revolt by some General Motors Corp. workers who wanted GM picked as the object of a new contract or a strike.

NEW YORK (AP) — Residents of a predominantly Puerto Rican block, apparently angered over a fatal shooting, threw gasoline bombs, rocks and bottles Sunday night. Their targets were Negroes and policemen and firemen fighting a tenement house blaze.

Police officials said today the outbreak developed from tension over the fatal shooting of a Puerto Rican by a Negro Saturday night and a series of Negro-Puerto Rican brawls Saturday night and early Sunday.

A Negro was arrested and charged with homicide early Sunday. More than two dozen Negroes and Puerto Ricans were arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Health officials hope by Wednesday or Thursday to be able to interpret trends and establish how long this city's sleeping sickness epidemic peak might last.

Twenty new suspected cases of encephalitis were reported Sunday, bringing to 413 the number of suspected suffers of the disease.

Thus far, 19 persons may have died of the St. Louis encephalitis virus, but only three deaths have been definitely attributed to the disease through laboratory analysis.

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Jeanne Lackaff sealed a note in a bottle, tossed it into the Columbia River here and then slept with visions of an Oriental prince finding the message.

That was back in 1925. Sunday, 39 years later, the bottle and note had been retrieved—not by a prince but by two teen-age boys, not in the Orient but in the surf at Florence, Ore.

"I think it is amazing," said the bottle-sender, now Mrs. Jeanne Onslow.

Local Resident

Visits World's Fair

Phillip L. Moore, Island Road, is one of thousands of persons to ride the AMF monorail while visiting at the New York World's Fair.

The American Machine & Foundry Co. monorail gives riders a panoramic view of the spectacular World's Fair scene and a good vantage point for taking pictures through photographically corrected picture windows.

It is expected that monorails will eventually be used in shopping centers and for high-speed inter-city and airport to city service.

Fuss over Woman Leads to Slaying

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Louis Brooks, 49, of Dayton, was fatally shot Sunday in his west side Dayton apartment. Authorities said C. T. McQueen, 34, also of Dayton, invaded Brooks' home apparently to settle an argument over a woman.

McQueen had a gun, both men fought, and Brooks was slain. McQueen suffered serious chest wounds and is in St. Elizabeth Hospital under police guard. He has not been charged.
